

Trams, Hong Kong Island

Attractions

Looking towards Hong Kong Island the visitor is presented with a spectre of architectural splendour signifying the prosperity and commerce of Hong Kong and at night, neon lights dominate the skyline. But Hong Kong Island offers more to the visitor, from the spectacular Victoria Peak with views to the New Territories in the north to the islands of the South China Sea, to Aberdeen and its community of boat people, Central District - the commercial, banking and government district, Causeway Bay with its department stores, shops and restaurants and Wan Chai – infamous in the 1960s for its nightlife. All this and more to tempt the visitor.
