

Khao Lak

Khao Lak faces the Andaman Sea in Phang-Nga province within 1 to 2 hours driving time from Phuket in the south and Krabi in the east. Khao Lak itself is a National Park area, with rich natural attractions and is a convenient departure point to the famous Similan and Surin Islands. It offers the perfect getaway for holidaymakers to be cut-off from the world! The climate of Khao Lak is warm year round with a cool NE Monsoon season from November to March. The hottest time is April and May with June through August less hot but there may be brief but heavy showers. September and October are the monsoon season, but even then there are long intervals of sunshine between heavy showers.
